

Terms of Use:

Kindly understand: I have spent an inordinate amount of time and effort putting this website together. The works presented here are a labor of love and steadfast commitment, destined to provide generations to come and me with a sustainable source of pride and income.

Therefore:

Do not copy my work.

Do not plagiarize my work.

If you have not purchased my work, do not steal my work, then turn around and sell or attempt to sell my work.

If you wish to license my work and make something out of it you have my permission and my blessing

AFTER

we negotiate an agreement and sign a contract.

You are free to do whatever you wish with the products you purchase through Spoonflower's website and distribution channels.

Lori Wier Designs owns all copyrights contained herein. Any and all artists Lori Wier Designs represents on this website and/or on any other social media platform have personally negotiated their inclusion on this website and/or any other social media platform with me; Lori Wier.

Therefore:

Do not copy the work of artists Lori Wier Designs represents.

Do not plagiarize the work of artists Lori Wier Designs represents.

Do not steal the work of artists Lori Wier Designs represents.

If you wish to purchase the work of artists Lori Wier Designs represents,
you are free to contact them.

If you wish to license the work of artists Lori Wier Designs represents,
you are free to contact them.

Lastly, by all means, please understand: I like trolls. I've known trolls all my life, and I get along with most of them. So, if you're a troll, welcome! But please: Behave yourself. Be kind, polite, and patient, and we can exchange ideas, collaborate on projects, do some serious business, perhaps even become the best of friends. Act out, and you will NEVER see this website again. Not your troll friends who behave themselves; just you.

